

HARTMAN FOR MAYOR DEMOCRATIC TICKET

ELKHART, Ind., Sept. 17.—Announcement made Tuesday by Councilman H. Otto Hartman, that he would be a candidate for the nomination for mayor on the democratic ticket to succeed Ellis M. Chester, caused a veritable furore in the ranks of the city organization for they had already picked the plum for Mr. Chester.

No one has dared to predict the outcome but Tuesday night it was stated that some kind of a compromise would be effected whereby Mr. Hartman would be induced to withdraw his candidacy. It is rumored that he has been offered a public works commissionship if he accedes to the organization's wishes.

Mr. Hartman, who has been a member of the city council for 16 years, has been employed in the Lake Shore boiler shop for 28 years.

At this time it seems certain that the republicans will name Harnian Horneman, a hardware merchant, and one of Elkhart's best known citizens, to head their ticket. Forrest E. Hughes, an attorney, will undoubtedly head the bull moose list of nominees. Councilman Frank Heplin, of the fifth ward, also announced his candidacy for re-election on the democratic ticket Tuesday.

JULIUS CAESAR.
At the Oliver Tuesday evening William Faversham gave an elaborate, dignified and thoroughly enjoyable presentation of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" to a large and appreciative audience.

Ten years ago Richard Mansfield presented the play at the Auditorium, taking the character of Brutus. Mr. Faversham selected the role of Marc Anthony and gave a performance that it beyond criticism. His manly figure, his graceful, expressive gestures, commanded immediate attention and his acting was none the less brilliant. In the senate scene his grief at the death of Caesar was well expressed and in the forum scene his great speech beginning, "Friends, Romans, countrymen," was read with rare skill and was most impressive.

R. D. Maclean had the part of Brutus and his performance challenged comparison with that of Mr. Faversham. His interpretation was that of a man of sorrow, who was oppressed by a sense of duty to do what he did not as a fanatic. In appearance he looked the noble Roman and was a commanding figure in the senate, on the forum and battlefield. Later in the tent and death scene his acting was most impressive and he shared equally with the star in the plaudits of the audience.

Ernest Rowan played Cassius, with fire and force, strong in his fiery and courtier in his grief. The role is not a pleasant one and Mr. Rowan deserves credit for his intelligent delineation. Arthur Elliot was a picturesque Casca and Thomas Tracy as Gessar, gave that martyred monarch a realistic portrayal. He pictured the struggles and fears of a man who realizes he is being plotted against and his makeup was historically correct.

Constance Collier, as the wife of Brutus, had all too little to do for a woman of her beauty and talent. Mr. Wheatley, as Caesar's wife, was equally commendable.

The cast was complete in every detail. The mob scenes were well managed and the costumes and scenery, equipment of a lavish and artistic nature. The forum scene is a difficult one to stage realistically and due credit must be given for the way this one was handled.

"THE VIRGINIAN."
The scenes of "The Virginian" being played this week at the Auditorium so successfully by the Grayce Scott Players, are laid in and about Medicine Bow, Wyo.

Harrison Ford, the leading man of the company, who plays the part of the hero in the great western play, has a cousin at present traveling through the west and one day last week Mr. Ford received the following letter in a letter which he published because it might prove interesting to those who have or who intend seeing the vivid drama of the cowpuncher at the local drama of the cowpuncher at the local drama of the cowpuncher.

"Have just passed Medicine Bow. Wanted to get off and get you a post card but our car stopped too far from the station. If it may be called by such a name. Thought you'd be interested if you are to play 'The Virginian' as most of its scenes were laid at Medicine Bow. I think there's a new stone hotel there now, entirely out of keeping with the rest of the town, called 'The Virginian.' They also have a garage. Suppose if the 'Virginian' lived near there at the present time, he'd motor in."

"The Virginian" will be played all the remainder of this week and will give away on Sunday afternoon to the late Clyde Fitch's greatest comedy success, "The Blue Mouse."

Lungs Were Affected;

Now in Good Health

The members of Eckman's Alternative, a remedy for Throat and Lung Troubles, do not claim that it will restore every one to perfect health, but so many have voluntarily testified it saved their lives that all who have this dread disease should investigate and try it. It should stop the night sweats, reduce fever, promote appetite and in very many cases, it has been used for years since I first took it. I am now well and I dare say that I would have been buried long ago if it had not been for Eckman's Alternative. I wish to thank you for the goodness to me. Wherever I go I highly recommend the Alternative as I once myself.

"Gentlemen: In the year 1906 I was taken with a heavy cold and a nasty cough and went to several doctors. In each case they prescribed a different medicine, but none of them did me any good. My brother then recommended Eckman's Alternative to me very kindly. It is now nearly two years since I first took it. I am now well and I dare say that I would have been buried long ago if it had not been for Eckman's Alternative. I wish to thank you for the goodness to me. Wherever I go I highly recommend the Alternative as I once myself."

The Economy
S. HARRY SALINGER

Belle Isle company first produced the laughable burlesque on scholars and the pranks they play at school. This act has had many imitators but none that employed such attractive girls, possessing excellent voices and juvenile comedians who could act. Their portion of the program is one continuous round of song and comedy. The seven people employed have real ability and have been especially chosen for their parts. It takes talent for a team to play in one with only a piano for "scenery" but Burkhardt and White will make a bright spot on any bill with their 20 minutes of music and song. Both are clever entertainers and work with dash and speed enough to keep pace with the fastest company. The Alexander girls, two juvenile dancers and miniature players with talent, will present the series of remarkable dances and costume changes that have stamped them as youthful wonders. Berry and Berry with their well graded musical act, are expert instrumentalists and the comedy they intermingle enters properly, making the offering pleasing and entertaining. Joe Lamin, a parody singer and monologist, is an adept in the particular line of entertaining. He is usually on the stage less than two minutes until he has his audience just where he wants it, so that his every word and gesture is greeted with bursts of laughter.

SHOWS VALUE OF MORAL LAWS IN GOVERNMENT

Some of the things that Christianity is doing for mankind were pointed out to the brotherhood of St. Paul's M. E. church at the first fall meeting in the social parlors Tuesday evening by Atty. Dan Pyle in an address when he used, "Complements of Religion," as his subject.

"When a nation lays aside her religion it will go to ruin," said Mr. Pyle, pointing out that the moral laws uphold good government when the laws of man fail. He said that many crimes can be committed which the laws of man can not punish but that the higher laws of God will always find out the guilty man. He showed how man's laws depended on moral laws for enforcement and for prosecuting criminals by the fact that witnesses and all evidence is heard after swearing an oath on the Bible. One of the worst crime of today he said is bribery. He said that it is not as bad as a few years ago, but that we have no law that can be tampered with as the bribery governing laws can be.

Following Mr. Pyle's address, Rev. J. L. Gardiner addressed the brotherhood, presenting a plan to develop a social relationship among the members of the church. His plan was accepted and arrangements were made to hold a social hour after the church services every Sunday night.

Committees were appointed an effort will be made to get the congregation that attends church Sunday evenings to retire to the basement where luncheon and music be had.

Every man in the brotherhood will be on a committee. One committee will have charge of serving the luncheon, another will have charge of the music and a third will have charge of receiving the people. It is hoped through the plan to work up the social relations of the church by making the people better acquainted.

Rev. Mr. Gardiner has special sermons planned for the evenings and they are being advertised widely.
